Bofton, December 12, 1768. My DEAR SIE, Wrote you a few days ago, and did sot then think of troubling you upon my private affair of mine, at least not fo fuddenly; but within this day or two, I have had a conversation with Mr. Oliver, secretary of the province, the defign of which was my fucceeding to the post he helds from the crown, upon the idea, that pro-vision would be made for governor Bernard, and the Lieutenant Governor would fueceed to the chair, then the Secretary is defirous of being Lieutenant Governor; and, if in any way, three hundred pounds a year could be annexed to the appointment. You are sensible the appointment is in one department, and the grant of money in another: Now the present Lieutenant Governor has an affigument of 200 l. a year upon the cultoms here; he has not received any thing from it as yet, and is doubtful if he shall; he has no doubt of its lapse to the interest that fum could be alligned to Mr. Oliver as Lieutemant Governor; and if he frould be allowed (as has been usually for all Lieutenant Governors) to hold the comall Lieutenant Governors) to hold the command of the castle, that would be smother soo!. This would complete the Decretal ry's views; and he thinks his publick forviers, the injuries he has received in that ferwice, and the favourable findments entertained of him by government, any lead him to these views, and he hopes for the interest of his friends. The place of decrevery is worth 2001. Industry but is a provincial great at profest, to that it will not allaw to be amotored at: And, at I had a day generally produced new rumours with-Maudnit, I think my character stands fair -I have not been without application to publick affairs, and have acquired fome knowledge of our provincial affairs; and notwithstanding our many free conversations in England, I am considered here as on government fide, for which I have been often traduced both publickly and pri-vately, and very lately have had two or three flaps. The Governor and Lieutenant Governor, are fully acquainted with the negociation, and I meet their approbation; all is upon the idea the Governor is provided for, and there shall by any means be a vacancy of the Lieutenant Governor's place. I have gone fo far, as to fay to fome of my friends, that rather than not fucceed, I would agree to pay the Secretasy 100l, a year out of the office to make up 300 l, provided he could obtain only the affignment of 2001, but the other proposal, would to be fure, be most eligible. I scarce know any apology to make for troubling you upon the subject; the friendship you shewed me in London, and the favourable expressions you made use of to the lieut. governor, in my behalf, encourage me, besides a fort of egotifm, which inclines men to think what they wish to be real. I submit myfelf to the inquiries of any of my countrymen in England, but I thould with the the matter may be fecret till it is effected. I am, with very great triped and regard, my dear Sir, Your most obedient, and most beautiful for the TH. ROGERS.

Otwithstanding of my having written to you very often, and at much length of late, and that I am upon the point of setting out for Boston, with the first weather fit for travelling, yet I cannot refrain from trou-bling you with a few lines about the 8th and 9th letters of the farmer, which I now inclose you. They are oracular here, and make rapid deep impressions, and who is there at this time here, if capable, that may undertake to contradid or expole thele agree-able feafonable epiftalary Sophifms? Relief, Support, and Recompence to long and to much expected, hoped and wither for, feems too tardy and flow paced-vigour and refolution feems to be exhaulted in Great Britain, or beflowed upon improper and more trivial objects, than the furjection or obedience of America. Excuse these out-pourings of melancholy and despectency in a very dreary day, when the weather alters and the fea shines abroad, perhaps I may see through a brighter or more agrees ble medium, but believe me, the prospect hatow bad and unpromising, but however is may prove, I defice, and pray you to be affored, that I am, Sir, your most obedient affored, that I am, Sir, your mon obedient and mod humble fervant, fubject, and have by this veffel wrote Mr. but fince the arrival of the two regiments with Col. Dalryciple, all has been quiet there. I now flatter myself that measures of vigour will be pursued and maintained here, and I impatiently wish to hear that your friend is in power and confidence again, but that it indeed a point I have much expediation, defire, and faith in. As you have expressed heretotore to me, an inclination of knowing the proceedings of the Rhode Island Astembly, respecting compenfation to the fufferers in the riot of Newport, I now trouble you with a copy of my etter of this day, to the Lords of the Treafury, which matatis mutandis, is the fame with that also to the Earl of Hillsborough of the fame date, with a copy of the narrative and letter to Lord Shelburne.

My LORDS,

Gain I presume upon troubling your A Gain I presume upon troubling your Lordships with as short an account as may be written of what has very lately paffed in the General Assembly of Rhode-Island colony, in reference to their granting of a compensation to the sufferers from the riot of Newport, 1765, as resolved on in the British Parliament, and very graciously recommended from his Majesty, to the Governor and Company of that colony by his principal Secretary of State.

Tired out and greatly mortified with a long course of frequent, fruitless, and a ver extensive attendance upon the General Affembly, I had resolved above a year ago to tolicit them no more? but at the intercession of my fellow fufferer, Mr. Howard, Chief Justice of North-Carolina, I was again prevailed upon to go to Newport, in September laft, where, and when the Affembly then met, and I had fufficient influence to engage the Speaker of the House of Deputies to move several times for reading a petition of Mr. Howard's, with an estimate of his lofe, folemnly fworn to and authenticated by a Notary Public, with every necesfary prescribed form. The Speaker also urged upon the House because of my attending from another colony, upon that account only, but the Deputies would meither confent to hear Mr. Howard's petition nor Peceive his estimate. Immediately after this refusal a meffage was fent from the Upper House of Magistrates, requesting the Lower House to en-ter now upon the riot of Newport, by im-mediately impowering the High Sheriff to impanuel a Jury of Inquisition to ascertain and repair the loss of Dr. Mosfat, Mr. Howard, and Mr. Johnson, but the House of Deputies could not litten nor agree to any

About the middle of last month I wrote a most respectful letter to the Governor of Rhode Island, and inclosed to his honour the estimate of my loss in the Newport rior, fworn to before, and attefted by a Magif-trate here, requesting the favour of the Governor to lay the fame before the ensuing Assembly. The Governor writes on the se-venth of this month, "that at the last sef-fion of Assembly, he presented my esti-mate and read my letter, in a great commit-tee of both Houses of Assembly, but could not prevail to have it confidered then ;" and adds, at that he will endeavour to bring is in again next February."

Under the strongest impressions of af-Mand, never will recompence the fufferets in the riot of Newport, may I again prefume to implore your Lordships interposition and influence to obtain a recompence for the fafferers in Rhode Island; from fome more Gednal and certain channel, than that of depending any longer upon the duty or jus-tice of the General Assembly in that coloay. And my Lords, may I yet further prefume in writing to your Lordships, to add, that by endeavouring to restore in some measure what I loft in that riot, I am now fidly fenfible that I have not over valued the same in my estimate, as also that if I em not compensated by the interest. rofity, and equity of your Lordships, Less never expect to be possified of halt the value I then loft, as the Office of the Com-here I now hold, has but a very in-ruble plary with final perquifites. I am, my Lords, &c. &c.

N. London, Nov. 14th, 1968.

In my last letter which I hope you have received, as I addressed it to the care of your brother, I then touched upon Sir William Johnson's being here some weeks in quest of health, and of the pleasure Mr. Stewart and I enjoyed with him; as also that Lord Charles Greville Montague was here en passent with his Lady; and I also then intimated to you our happiness in Mr. Harrison, the Collector of Boston, having accepted Mr. Stewart's warm invitation to come here, after the very flagrant riot at Boston, in which he had been so greatly infulted, abused and burt, who came here with his Lady, fon and daughter, and fluid a fortnight; when we planned and regulated all these colonies into a system which I could wish to see effected. Since which Mr. Stewart has visited Mr. Harrifon at Boston, at the time when Mrs. Harrifon with their fon and daughter failed for London, as a place of periect fafety and liberty. Mr. Harrison's fon is capable and promising, but was cruelly used by the mob of Boston, which will, I hope, induce Mr. Harrison's friends, or rather the friends of government, to provide suitable for so young a fufferer. I could not eafily within the compass of a letter to you, say the pleafure I have felt, in observing the ftrict union and friendship that sublists, and is now rivetted between Mr. Harrison and Mr. Stewart, upon principles of the truest honour and virtue, both of whom well understand and fincerely wish the true interest of Great-Britain, and all her colonies, especially in the cardinal articles of legislation and government; as also in the subaltern, or lesser points of taxation and reveaue, from which objects no attachments, connexions, or views will, or even can fway the one or the other. As I have been accustomed to write to you with a plainness and freedom, which I flatter myself has not been disagreeable; so, therefore, I would further fay of Mr. Stewart, that he married in an opulent, popular, and commercial family, fome of whom perhaps, may be supposed to have more oblique interest than may be confishent with regulation, or a due submission to the laws of Great Britain; fo it is with a peculiar and very fensible satisfaction, that I can affure you his spirit, address, and conduct, in fo nice a fituation, deferve the greatest praise and commendations, as it has perhaps been, or may be very influential on some of the best among them, even to a better way of thinking, and acting. By the inclosed, you will know that Mr. Stewart now writes to Mr. Grenville, and mentions fomewhat of his application for leave of absence from the Treasury Board, which I only wish him to fucceed in, because I think Mr. Harrison, and him, really the most capable persons here, to throw light upon many transactions here, which cannot be communicated in letters, or any written representation to fatisfaction, or proper advantage. If Mr. Stewart obtains leave to return home, I shall be unhappy enough by his absence. Two years are now elapfed fince I came here, a great part of which has been fpent in anxioully wishing for the genius of Britain to awake and vindicate her supreme jurisdiction and authority, impiously questioned and denied in colonies fo very lately redeemed from hostile incursions and encroachments ; but I believe the time is now come, and I rejoice in its approach. I wish you every felicity with the perferment and employment you like best, and am, Sir,

Your most obedient humble Servant, THOMAS MOFFAT. N. London, Nov. 15, 1768. [To be continued.]

Translation of part of a letter from Berlin.

Our warlike preparations are purfued with more than usual vigour; and though we have a well disciplined army of about 250,000 men, ready to take the field, yet our King has lately taken into pay the Heffian and Brunswick troops; and the Empevor, with whom our King is in a frict Union and Alliance, has likewife taken the Saxon and Palatine troops into pay. The fecrets of our cabinet, you know, are impenetrable; yet the best politicians affirm, that this formidable armament cannot folely be meant to fecure the possession of Poland, but, that certainly our King and the Emperor, will put in force their favourite scheme, of annihilating our ancient fyllem of government in Germany, and to effabliff out of its ruins, two formidable Mos narchies. A few days ago Philip Skinner the elder, and Philip Skinner the younger, two farmers, of the Parish of Crunys Morehead, in the county of Devon, were committed to the castle of Exeter, for the wilful murder of their apprentice, by almost starving him to death, and then beating his brains out, The suspicion of the murder arose from the following circumstances : Skinner the elder applied to a carpenter, at Toverton, for a coffin for the young lad, but, on the carpenter's faying he must measure the corpse, he told him he had done that, and would take home the coffin and pail it up, which he accordingly did. Many people having been eye witnesses of the frequent ill treatment the youth met with from both the Skinners, the Minister was requested to have the body inspected; the coroner was fent for, and the young man's brains were found beat out. The Skinners quitted their farm immediately and hid themselves; but a few days ago a letter from them was intercepted, and they, were accordingly found out, and committed to the county gaol on the Coroner's information.

ter, or inte Spains, or both.

As the louist of Respiration was nearly cealing, he Blood was of necessity accumu-lated in he Trunks of the Cava the right Auricle, Ventricle, and Pulmonary Artery. The carative Indications were, to relieve the right Auricle and Ventricle, by bleeding; and revive the Motion of the Heart, by vineus, fpirituous and volatile Cordials, As Rum and Water are always at Hand, I caused some Water to be heated, and of the warm Water four Parts and Rum one Part made a strong Grog. Of this we forced down several Tea Cups, until he had taken half a Pibt nearly, in half an Hour; when his Flesh grew warm, his irations more agreeable to Nature, and Pulle more fleady and elared.

he next half Hour we got down in like mner about half a Pint of warm Madeira ; Pulse and Respiration continuing in the Tenour, I brought from my Chamin the College, an highly volatile Tine-, and gave him forcibly, a Table onful out of a Tea Cup of Madeira: caufing him to be faid horizontal: his Head, Neck, and Bread a little d, above the Belly and Extremities; the Dose was repeated every half Hour, un-til an o'Clock: His Pulse roll by Degrees, Repirations became less convultive, his Fich grew warm and red: He wept bit-terly and had frequent returns of profound Tremors, like those in the cold Fit of an intermors. interminent Fever: At half past ten be was taken to his Lodgings; I saw him in the Evening at feven, very well recovered, in a breathing Sweat, Respiration easy, the Pulse soft, regular, neither less nor exceeding the Pulse on Highlith: He was languilty like one fatigued with Lebour, and had not the least Remembrance of what had happened from the Time of his going to the Water, to that Hour.

Vater, to that Hour.

It is to be observed, that when his Heart Lungs, which I am of O began to vibrate with Vigour, we took Care to flop the Orifices of the Veins, left too great a Diminution of Blood, should be attended with Effects like those caused by too great a Quantity, whereby the rig Auricle and Ventricle were oppr

Deliquium or Swoning. This Method therefore I pre commend, when there are Respiration and Pulse, that is a Motions, signified by the Breat beating of the Arteries: For the fwallowing, can be per have very near

1 know me

When an Animal in Health is put under the Receiver of an Air Pump, and the Air is removed by the working of the Pump, his Lungs collapse for want of Air endued with elasticity to inflate them : The Confece of this is, that the Blood cannot pass the expillary Veffels of the Lungs, but accumulates by Degrees, in the Pulmonary Artery, the right Ventricle and Auricle, and finally in the System of Veins-

I know this to be the Cafe by Diffection of many Animals, which I have killed in the Air Pump, and diffected when I killed them! The Trunks of the great Veins, the right Auricle, and Ventricle preserved for a considerable Time some degree of Oscillation, though weak and tremulous; and after all Motion had for fometime ceased in the Extremities of the Creature, and in the Muscles of the Trunk : As the vital Motions furvive the animal Motions, so do the Motions of the Intestines, termed Peristaltick furvive the vital.

But the Case of a Creature killed by the Air Pump is not diffimilar to that of a Creature in Health immersed in the Water : In the Inflant of Immersion, if the Water is colder than the Air, a Contraction of the hole Syftem of Muscles enfues ; and the Air is expressed from the Lungs, by the Confiriction of the Breaft, (by the Word Breaft I mean the Bones and Muscles forming the Cavity for the Lungs, Trunks of the great Veffels and Heart) partly, and partly as being specifically lighter than the ambient Water Thus are the Lungs emptied of their Air, and in the next effort of Inspiration, the Water is pressed into the Lungs, and with the greater Force by how much deeper the Animal is immerfed.

So then, in the Circumstance of drowning, the Lungs collapse for want of elastic Finid to expand the vescicular Substance of them; and the Blood flagnates in the ultimate Branches fpread upon the Veficles; in the next greater Branches in Succession, and finally in the Trunk of the pultaonary Artery; as it did in the Lungs, deprived of the Air in the Receiver of the Pump.

If a Person is so long immersed that the beating of the Heart and Arteries is indifcernable, and Respiration feems to be ceafed, and all Power of Deglutition is loft; yet it is possible some Degree of vital Mo tion may remain in the Heart, which it may not be impossible to raise : Yet I should recommend, first to cut open whatever Vein can be feen, then immerfe the Body in warm Water, or in warm Ashes, or Sand, or Sait, which ever is at Hand; and while the Body is thus covered, to rub the Extremities with the Hand or coarse Rubber : for the Warmth thins the Blood, and the Frictions promote the Vibration of the Vessels and the progresive Motion of the Fluids in Confequence ; thus may the Heart be confiderably affifted, in forcing the Blood through the Lungs, into the left Auricle, Ventricle and Aorta.

I have observed, that in a very little Time after I have killed an Animal by the Air Pump, or Strangling, that the Blood has been gramous; and Physicians know that grumes of Blood are frequently formed in the Veffels of Histerics, who are liable to Languors and Sownings; and that they are often the Caules of insuperable, Obstructions. And I know Blood clotted in the Ves-

This Night to Youth our moral Scene displays How falle, how fatal are the Wanton's Ways : Paints her alluring Snares, falacious Wiles, And the black Ruin lurking in her smiles; Bids them the first Approach of Vice to shun, And claims a Tear, for Innocence undone.

While Scenes like these employ our humble Stage, We fondly hope your Favour to engage: No ribald Page shall here Admittance claim, Which Decency or Virtue brands with Shame; No arrful Hint that wounds the Virgin's Ear, No Thought which Modesty must blush to hear. New York, July 15, 1771-Qui visum vitam dat. Cic.

THE infinitely wife author of nature, has affigued to the eyes and ears, the most useful and important offices of life : The ftructure of those delicately tender organs is fo exquititely minute, the mechanilm and properties of their various parts to admirably curious, that they may be stiled with propriety, the miracles of nature! The great variety of dangers and discases, manifest and occult, to which those precious senses are exposed; the little attention that hitherto has been paid to the improvement of this noble fcience; and fo few, properly qualified, have engaged in its practice, that to fludy them in any degree fuitable to their im-portance, is full business for life.

The inclimable blessing, and great advantages which attend a perfect enjoyment of the fight and hearing, are obvious to all; but the deplorable and truly piciable condition of the blind and deaf, is attended with fuch folitary discomfort, fuch gloomy ideas, and conftant uneafiness of mind, as no one can be truly fenfible of who has not in fome measure experienced it himself. How noble therefore, how deferving of the nicelt cultivation must that art be, that can restone fight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, speech to the dumb, and keep in order the springs of those master pieces of creative wisdom? That art must needs be divine, because, these affiled, the wonders of nature, and of art, opining on the mind, expand it with the most exalted apprehensions of the GREAT ARTIST!

To the Inhabitants of BRITISH AMERICA, Dr. GRAHAM, Oculift and Aurift, most respectfully offers his best Services, and acquaints them,

ROPOSALS For printing by Susscription, NEW Periodical Production, entitled, The ROYAL

MAGAZINE: AMERICAN Or, UNIVERSAL REPOSITORY. [To be published MONTHLY.] To the PUBLIC.

ITERATUE being the grand fountain from whence springs all that is requisite to accomplish rational beings for the enjoyment of social happiness, and sit them for their various employments on this stage of action; it is noble in us to encourage and cultivate every thing tending to promote this great gift of heaven among mankind.

Before the art of Printing was known, the sons of science suffered greatly; and it is beyond a doubt, that for the want of that useful vehicle the PRINTING PRESS, in those days, many very valuable essays of the ancients have been buried in oblivion.

In this polite age, when Printing flourishes, the man of genius may hand his performances to the public, who may give them to their children, and fo transmit them down to pollerity.

We may now, from the King upon the throne to the peasant in his cottage, learn what is passing in the world, and developing the arcane of both civil and ecclesiastical arrangy, of all their mystery, inform ourselves of every thing conducive to our happiness in this or the coming world.

For the better and more regular communication of intelligence, and that the productions of men of genius might be more universally known, periodical publications first took place; and their periods were long or short, as best ferved the community where they were established. Among the many where they were established. Among the many performances of this kind, which are so frequent in Europe, none is more wanted in America, and particularly in this part of it, than a MONTHLY one; which want has long been complained of by men of the greatest ingenuity in the American world. Those gentlemen would undoubtedly much oftner favour the public with essays, instructive and entertaining to all classes of men, if there was a suitable periodical publication for their insertion. Newsble periodical publication for their infertion. Newspapers are known to be of general utility, but not so fit to convey to posserity the labours of the learned, as they are, most commonly, only noticed for a day, and then thrown neglected by; whereas Monthly Publications are preserved in the libraries of men of the greatest abilities in the libraries world. It is needless to point out any thing funther in recommendation of this intended work, —The publisher of these proposals, therefore begs leave, with the usuals submission, to present the following.

The best Price given for ALL SORTS OF INEN RAGS. ording to their Quality and Finenels, JOHN KEATING. AT HIS PER MANUFACTORY, TORE IN NEW-YORK, Near BURLING's-SLIP, Where he has for SALE, Good affortment of European and East-India goods, fuitable for the feafon,

The demand for paper in America, is of late for greatly increased, that very large sums are continually sent abroad for the purchase of it, to the great impoverishment of the Colonies: All the paper which is manufactured among our selves, is a clear saving, to us, of all the meney that would be sent out of the country to procure it; it is therefore hoped, that all those who really wish to promote the interest of America, and of this country in particular, with which they are more closely connected in interest, will contribute their aid to the success of the paper manufactory in this place, by a constant care and attention to save the linen rags, which every family could afford in a greater or less quantity, quits useless for any other purpose, and generally thrown away, but absolutely necessary to a paper manufactory, which cannot be carticle on without them:

The smallness of the value of rags in a family, is apt to make people carciers in faving them, as being scarce worth the trouble; but small as the value is, it is more than sufficient, taking one family with another, to supply each with all the paper necessary for its use; And the benefit each will receive in common with the community, will be much greater than their immediate profit by the price of the rags. A certain place set a part in every house to service them, and a little practice in faving them, would from make it habitual to do it, and establish this valuable manufactory upon a permanent foundation.

among which are
The much celebrated Letters of the Right Hon: Lady Mary Wortley Montague, written during her Travels in Europe, Afle, and Africa.

These Letters are the most curious and agreeably entertaining that ever appeared in the World, in any Language; in every Circumstance that can recom-Language; in every Circumstance that can recom-mend a Work of this Kind, they excel all that have mend a Work of this Kind, they excel all that have gone before, or probably may ever fueceed them; and we have Reason to believe, that the fair Anthoress was the only Person in the World capable of writing them, or in a Situation to admit of it. The Style is easy and elegant, the Sentiment just, delicate and important; the Temper cheerful and benevolent. The Descriptions, natural, lively, beautiful and grand; the Events remarkable, strange, and interesting. None but a Lady, in her high Station, could have been admitted to the Secarch she describes, and none but a Person of her Cariosty, and extraordinary Abilities, could have observed or described them.
